
Note on Contributors

Bc. Bronislav Bechyňský (1987) is currently finishing his master's degree in Security and Strategic Studies at the Faculty of Social Studies at the Masaryk University in Brno, where he also received his bachelor's degree in International Relations and Security and Strategic Studies. He is professionally focused in particular on security issues in international relations, especially terrorism.

Ing. Vít Beneš, Ph.D. (1980), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and he lectures at the University of Economics in Prague and the Metropolitan University in Prague. He specializes in the European Union (enlargement, institutional reforms) and the Czech-Russian relations.

Doc. JUDr. PhDr. Veronika Bílková, Ph.D., E.MA (1975), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and Assistant Professor in the Department of International Law of the Law Faculty of the Charles University in Prague. She is focused on international law, mainly the use of force, international humanitarian law, human rights, international criminal law and international organizations (UN).

Mgr. et Mgr. Jan Blažek (1986) is an internal Ph.D. student of the Metropolitan University in Prague and the Institute of International Relations. Areas of his interest include alternative visions of political community in international relations, migration, ethical theories of international relations or theories of radical politics.

JUDr. PhDr. Marek Čejka, Ph.D. (1975.), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and he lectures at the Faculty of Social Studies at the Masaryk University in Brno, CEVRO Institute, Prague, and Evangelical Theological Faculty of the Charles University in Prague. His focus: region of Near East and Maghreb, Near East conflicts, Israeli and Palestinian policies, Zionism, Arab nationalism, Islamism and radical Islamism.

PhDr. Ondřej Ditrych, M.Phil., Ph.D. (1982), is an Assistant Professor of the Institute of Political Studies at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague (co-ordinator of its research centre Deutsch Security) and is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations. He deals especially with the US foreign policy, discourse about terrorism, energy security, policy in the Caucasus and history of thought in international relations.

Mgr. Tomáš Dopita, Ph.D. (1979), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and post-graduate student of International Relations at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. The topics of his interest are international peace operations in general, international interventions in post-Dayton Bosnia and Hercegovina, Czech and Polish foreign policies towards the Western Balkans and also gender equality in the Czech development co-operation.

Doc. PhDr. Jan Eichler, CSc. (1952), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations, operating also at the Faculty of International Relations of the University of Economics in Prague. In the long-term, he specializes in the issues of international security relations (transatlantic relations, strategic culture, armed conflicts, military dimension of security).

Mgr. Jakub El-Ahmadieh (1988) is a Ph.D. student in the field of International Territorial Studies at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. At the same time, he studies at the Faculty of Law of the Charles University, where he is focused on the foreign and immigration law. He is specialized in the Near East and US foreign policies.

Ing. Rudolf Fürst, Ph.D. (1958), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations. He focuses on the areas of Far East, especially China.

JUDr. Vladimír Handl, CSc. (1957), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations; he lectures at the Faculty of German and Austrian Studies of the Institute of International studies at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. He focuses on the German foreign and security policy, Czech-German relations, Czech foreign policy, and transformation of Communist parties in Central Europe.

Mgr. Martin Hrabálek, Ph.D. (1980), works as an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Territorial Studies of the Faculty of Regional Development and International Studies of the Mendel University in Brno. Externally he teaches at the Faculty of International Relations and European studies of the Faculty of Social Studies at the Masaryk University in Brno. He focuses on the region of Latin America and on European integration, especially with respect to external relations of the European Union, and on the migration policy of the EU.

Ing. Ondřej Horký-Hlucháň, Ph.D. (1980), is the Head of the Research Department at the Institute of International Relations. He deals especially with the issues of the global development and development co-operation.

Mgr. David Chudoba (1982) is a graduate from the Media Studies at the Institute of Communication Studies and Journalism at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University. Nowadays he continues there in a postgraduate study programme. The areas of his expert interest include especially media regulation, issues of objectivity and also the research of media literacy.

Mgr. Michaela Ježová (1986) is a Ph.D. student at the Faculty of Politics and International Relations at the University of West Bohemia in Plzeň. She is interested in the issues of political Islam in the Maghreb countries and focused on the practice in ultraorthodox Jewish and Muslim communities.

PhDr. Zuzana Kasáková, Ph.D. (1977), is active at the Faculty of West European Studies of the Institute of International Studies at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. She is focused on the regional policy and structural funds, devolution, British policy, European integration and nationalism.

PhDr. Michal Kořan, Ph.D. (1977), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and Assistant Professor of the Department of International Relations and European Studies at the Faculty of Social Studies at the Masaryk University in Brno. He is focused on the foreign policy development, Central European space and philosophy of social science.

Mgr. Miloslav Machoň (1988) is a Ph.D. student at the Jan Masaryk Centre of International Studies at the University of Economics in Prague. He contributes to lecturing in seminars of the Economic Diplomacy course.

Mgr. Lucia Najšlová, Ph.D. (1980) works at the Institute of International Studies at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. She deals with the legitimacy of the European Union as a foreign policy actor, especially within the policies of enlargement, neighbouring and support of democracy.

PhDr. Vlastimil Nečas, Ph.D. (1980), works at the Institute of Communication Studies and in the Centre for Media Studies of the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. His expert interest is focused on theories of media effects and political communication, especially in the area of agenda-setting in connection with the Czech media, public and political discourse.

Mgr. Nikita Odintsov (1990) is an internal Ph.D. student at the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague in the field of International Relations. He also works as an external research worker at the Institute of International Relations. He focuses on energy security and foreign policy of the Russian Federation.

Ing. Jana Peterková, Ph.D. (1971), is an Assistant Professor at the Jan Masaryk Centre for International Studies at the Faculty of International Relations of the University of Economics in Prague. She is focused on the area of diplomatic studies, especially the topic of public diplomacy, and the issues of international negotiations and communication.

Mgr. Kateřina Rudincová, Ph.D. (1985), is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Geography of the Faculty of Science, Humanities and Education, Technical University in Liberec. At the same time, she works as an external fellow worker at the Institute of International Relations. She is focused especially on the conflicts in the area of the Horn of Africa, politics of the African Union and the issues of borders and right of nations to self-determination in Africa.

Mgr. et Mgr. Lukáš Tichý, Ph.D. (1982), is a research fellow at the Institute of International Relations and lecturer at the Metropolitan University Prague. He also works as Assistant Professor at the Philosophical Faculty of the University in Hradec Králové. He is interested in the issues of relations between the EU and Russia, energy security and theories of international relations.

Mgr. Eliška Tomalová, Ph.D. (1979), is an external fellow worker of the Institute of International Relations and Assistant Professor at the Department of West European Studies of the Faculty of Social Science of the Charles University in Prague. She is specialized in the European integration, territorial studies focused on Western Europe, French foreign politics and cultural diplomacy.

Doc. Ing. Mgr. Štěpánka Zemanová, Ph.D. (1975), is the Head of the Jan Masaryk Centre for International Studies of the Faculty of International Relations of the University of Economics in Prague. She is focused on the international political and economic aspects of human rights protection and also covers the issues of the European integration.